

Students feel nervous for on-line learning and not having the face to face interaction with their instructors

Students feel worries that they don't have the technology or access to the same materials as they would in class

Students not attending on line class/ do not turn their cameras on or log on and leave the computer

Employers not realizing in class importance for online and scheduling them for work nevertheless

Think and Feel?

Hear?

See?

Missing deadlines as constant reminders from teachers and classmates aren't available

Missing the teamwork of group projects and collaboration from classmates

What does your learner...?

Say and Do?

Students often saying they understand but work shows different. Intimidation online?

Want the syllabus to be detailed with reminders noted throughout of upcoming assignments/tests

Pain Points?

Outside distractions/job taking the place of their education and learning

Less participation from students and discussions hard to execute

Gain Points?

Webex meetings each week to go through the material and explain exact expectations

Find that the teacher is more readily available at all times through email, webex etc which is more than original office hour availability
