

My role as an educator is a relationship. This relationship has one primary destination with four stops along the way. The primary destination is being a 'subject matter expert'. Along this journey with each learner, my stops are:

1. Transferring knowledge from me to learner,
2. Acquire knowledge from learner to me,
3. Engage in community collaboration on a local, national and global capacity, and
4. Incorporate and respect life role influences both myself and learners have.
