Learning to Learn modified for college audience

Learning to Learn Online at Fanshawe is available through the eCampusOntario Open Library. This open guide has been adapted and branded to the Fanshawe context. It provides all the core content of a quality OER, but tailored to meet the needs of a specific audience. It's not reinventing the wheel...it's adapting

Using repositories to develop my OER bank

One of my favourite courses to teach is our Human Biology course in the Pre-Health program. Students love learning more about topics that apply to their educational goals and career aspirations. One of the topics that the students struggle with the most is the Urinary system. I always try

Business Writing Engagement Exercise

I have been looking at ways to make my online teaching more engaging and interactive, especially for out of country classes. This Open textbook provided this awesome exercise which I have already used in my class - the students did the exercise and then used Mentimeter to indicate 5 words from their groups. They
