Social Isolation

I am a fan of social inclusion, especially in healthcare based professions where independent learning and objective completion is beginning to overtake the idea of group projects. My challenge is find a way to overcome social isolation that tends to come with with virtual learning.

Zoom Breakout Rooms

Utilizing breakout rooms and platforms that enable smaller groups can foster environments that are more engaging and increased comfort to remove social isolation that often occurs with larger zoom calls and activities where a small percent of larger presentations engage the presenter.
