

The job of an educator is like that of a navigator, navigating the ship of their students, using the stars to guide them through countless galaxies of knowledge. A good navigator will also mentor their crew to read the stars and figure out the best path for themselves. Whether the scenic route is selected or the shortest efficient route, the journey should be comfortable, with a growing sense of familiarity with the stars.

“Anyone can steer the ship, but it takes a leader to chart the course. Leaders who are good navigators are capable of taking their people just about anywhere.” ~ John C. Maxwell
