Relevance:
Does the resource relate to your needs?
Who is the intended audience?
Is the information in the resource at an appropriate level for your learners?
This book includes the main topics of project management, such as the processes of initiation, planning, execution, control/monitoring and completion that all projects share. It is intended for an undergraduate introductory course and will be appropriate for my students experience, literacy skills, and prior education/knowledge. It aligns well with the course learning objectives.

Authority:
Who is the creator? **
What are their credentials or organizational affiliations?
Are they qualified to write on this topic?
This book was written by Adrienne Watt and published by BC Campus. Adrienne Watt holds a computer systems diploma (BCIT), a bachelor's degree in technology (BCIT) and a master's degree in business administration (City University). She has authored several textbooks.

Accuracy:
Is the information supported by evidence?
Has the resource been reviewed or refereed?
Are there spelling, grammar, or typographical errors?
The OER text includes all resources and references used, including media images and files. Attributions are included for each chapter as links that allow you to easily and quickly check the references used. The text has also been reviewed by several academics.

Purpose:
Why does this resource exist? (to inform, teach, sell, entertain, or persuade?)
Is the information fact, opinion, or propaganda?
Are there political, ideological, cultural, religious, institutional, or personal biases?
This text was created to be a supplemental teaching aid in introductory undergraduate-level project management courses. The information is factual and includes references. There is no opinion included.

Final Recommendation - Will you use this resource? Why or why not?
Yes. This is a great resource for my students.
