

Think and Feel?

Hear?

See?

Say and Do?

Audio with notes already made was good but it was challenging with material that did not match

Assessments felt fair with the material and reviews given

Content felt relevant to what we will be doing

The layout of the course was easy to use

Speaking in person may help how interesting the class is

Different formats made it engaging for the material

Easy to keep up and study with asynchronous content at our own time

Practice problems are great - try to include more so we can do them

Students want more interaction! More synchronous learning

Pain Points?

Students not as open about asking questions in the class

The organization of the modules allow for easy learning

Gain Points?

Weekly reminders emailed to class help people keep on track
